- WHEN: Saturday, December 1, 1973. Polls open at 12 noon, close at 7:00 p.m.

"I'm so glad Merry Christmas comes just once a year," lamented the song of so many years ago. The preparations for the holiday were so much drudgery, it implied, that the day itself could hardly be enjoyed.

If Antioch merchants can help it, one of those "holiday chores" -- Christmas Shopping -- is going to be easier and more pleasant this year. Coordinating their efforts through the Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the businessmen are launching a two-pronged attack on the problems of tramping from store to store, children in tow.

The opening shot will be a Christmas Hospitality Night, Thursday, December 6. The participating merchants promise free prizes, gifts and refreshments for shoppers visiting their stores that night, between 6:30 and 9:00. A festive atmosphere will be created not only by the seasonal decorations, but by a strolling choir of carollers from Antioch Community High School, who will go from store to store.

The purpose of the affair is not a dollar promotion; rather, it is hoped to acquaint Antioch residents with the wide variety of merchandise that is available in their hometown shopping area. Participating merchants plan the Christmas Hospitality Night as an annual event.

The dilemma of how to shop for the kids' presents without them knowing will be solved by two Saturday matinees at the Antioch Theatre. Imagine being able to drop the kids off at the movies and shopping in peace and quiet for three hours!!! And all at the expense of the

Polley cites benefits of Area Vocational Center

The creation of a Lake County Area Vocational Center would "open a much broader range of courses that Antioch Community High School can offer to its students," according to Superintendent Warren Polley. The authorization to impose a small tax for up to five years to construct such a facility will be the subject of a referendum, Saturday, December 8, in Antioch and 12 other high school districts in Lake County.

Antioch already offers basic courses in several vocational fields, according to Polley. These areas include: Woods, Metals, Electronics, Power Mechanics, Drafting, and Secretarial Skills.

"We teach introductory and pre-vocational courses in these areas," Polley said. "A student in these classes learns the basics of the subject, but usually he could not go from the class into a job. In drafting and some of the secretarial skills, we probably come closest to giving the student a saleable skill, but the other areas require further training."

This, according to Polley, is where the proposed Area Center would be of considerable advantage. Through a cooperative approach, the 14 high school districts could offer programs that each individual school could not.

For example, Polley said, Antioch could not give a whole shop over to welding, hiring a teacher to instruct in this specialty, because only 6 or 10 students might be interested in such training. However, if each of the 14 schools had a few students interested in welding, they could join together through the Area Center to offer such a program.

If the Area Center is created, nothing would be eliminated from the vocational programs currently offered at Antioch, Polley stated. This is because of the fact that the current offerings are "introductory and pre-vocational." But all of the Area Center vocational programs would be offered, in addition, to any student at Antioch Community High School.

The list of tentative vocational programs for the center includes: Ornamental Horticulture, Environmental Control, Simulated Model Office Program, Business Data Processing, Health Occupations, Air Conditioning, Heating, Automotive, Building Trades, Electricity Electronics, Graphic Communications, Machine Shop, Welding-Fabrication, Marine and Small Engines, Business Machine Repair, Care and Guidance of Children,

VOTE ON REFERENDUM THIS SATURDAY

If ever the admonition, "Be sure to vote," held true, it does for the referendum Saturday in the Antioch Grade School District No. 34.

It is commonly known that in elections of this kind, there is a relatively stable number of "No" votes that can be expected. What makes the difference is the degree of support, the voter turnout, among those who support the issue. It is not sufficient to merely say that we want good education, then sit home and let the referendum die.

Any request for a tax rate increase at this time poses a dilemma for most voters. Public sentiment indicates that citizens feel that they are at the saturation point. While it is apparent that we must be willing to pay the price if we want good education, in this time of rising prices and critical shortages, the need is seen for allocating resources, for setting priorities.

Our position can be stated simply that we are in favor of good education, and so we must support the referendum. Nobody really wants higher taxes, but if we desire the benefits, the money must come from somewhere.

The burden of paying for quality education, of course, is not ours alone, but falls on all property owners (and, indirectly, on renters). The weight of any tax increase, it seems, bears most heavily on the middle income property owner, who also wants the best education for his children, but must pay for it with ever-shrinking resources.

Most people who are planning to vote in Saturday's referendum have probably already made up their minds as to how they will mark their ballot. What we say here, we regret, may not have a great effect.

But we feel that two factors should be pointed out for your special consideration.

1. The amount of increase requested has been reduced from the original suggestion of 60 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to 25 cents. This not only reflects the increased assessed valuation in the district, but also indicates that the School Board has carefully weighed the minimum amount needed to provide good, full education. The increased revenue would allow the re-instatement of programs cut from the budget almost two years ago.

2. By agreeing to increase our tax rate, we will qualify our schools for more than $34,000 of additional State aid. If the referendum is defeated, this money will not be ours.

The ultimate solution to the dilemma of funding good schools lies in revamping the system for financing public education. The greater emphasis should be placed on State funds, relieving the burden from the local property owner.

While we pressure our elected representatives in this direction, the tax increase requested in Saturday's referendum would provide funds for immediate needs.

McClory urges action on Arab oil cut-off

Faced with what appears to be an ever-deepening energy crisis, Congressman Robert McClory (Rep., Ill.) today appealed directly to the President and recommended that this country take immediate action against the Arab nations for their oil blackmail.

In his letter Mr. McClory asked that with the arrival of the last oil tanker, on or about November 24, 1973, we should immediately consider reduction or elimination of exports of food stuffs and other commodities to Arab nations involved in the present extortion policy against the United States.

He further recommended that other Western and Eastern nations on the so-called black list of Arab nations should take the same kind of steps. He noted that we have little to fear from the argument that the Russians would make up for any Arab food deficiency since the Russians have been having difficulty in feeding their own people and making up their own agriculture deficiencies.

Congressman McClory declared:

"According to my advice, we have supplied Lebanon, Egypt, Algeria, and Saudi Arabia with more than $155.7 million in agricultural products during the first eight months of 1973. This is a significant increase over a total of approximately $124.7 million for all of 1972 to the same Arab nations.

"In fact, we have been supplying the Arab countries with food and other necessities for many years. These were given sometimes as gifts and at other times on easy credit. It is the American taxpayer who has been the real benefactor of the Arab nations. Also, these nations should be reminded that it was American capital, know-how, and technology that developed their oil fields and brought them their wealth. Our attitudes toward the Arab nations have not changed. The only difference is we are now trying to aid the young state of Israel to survive in the Middle East. "Threatened with fuel shortages to heat our homes and schools, and to supply our essential manufacturing and gasoline needs, the American public health, safety and welfare are just as vitally important as the threat of famine in any of the Arab countries."

"I say that, if the Arab countries are going to cut back on petroleum, before we subject our nation to a system of rationing gas and heating fuel, let's make it perfectly clear to the Arab nations that they may soon be rationing food and other life necessities to their population."

Mr. McClory said that he agreed generally with the President's energy policy position and that he would like to see his legislative proposals quickly carried through. He noted that once we are out of the present energy dependency role, we will not be in a situation where Arab nations will even attempt to dictate our foreign policy by any means.

Help offered to senior citizens and disabled on tax relief forms

With less than three weeks remaining before the filing deadline under the Senior Citizens and Disabled Persons Property Tax Relief Act (see front page story in last week's Antioch News), offers of assistance for those who wish to claim the rebate are coming from several sources.

In short, the law stipulates that senior citizens and disabled persons who qualify, may receive a rebate for a portion of the property tax or rent that they paid for 1972. Besides the age or disability qualifications, the major limit is a maximum of $10,000 on total household income.

Antioch Village Clerk Marilyn Sterbenz reports that she has received a supply of the application forms from the Department of Revenue. She will distribute them to anyone coming to the Village Hall for them.

For those who want assistance in filling out the form, two programs are being arranged.

The State Bank of Antioch will offer assistance to anyone requesting it, Saturday, December 1, at the bank. Forms are also available at the bank.

Henry Meyer, Superintendent of Antioch Grade Schools, reports that all area schools will be open, Saturday, December 15, to help those who want to file for the rebate. The schools cooperating in the project include: Antioch, Channel Lake, Emmons, Grass Lake and Oakland Grade Schools, Antioch Upper Grade School, all Lake Villa grade schools, and Antioch Community High School. All of these schools will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Forms will be available, and people will be on hand to aid in filling them out. Since the deadline for application is December 17, Meyer says, the forms will be mailed that day.

The tax rebate applies not only to property owners, but to those who rent, as well, since part of their rent is considered to go for tax on the property.

Anyone who is 65 or over as of the end of 1972, or who is disabled, whose household income is under $10,000, is advised to investigate the possibility of qualifying for a refund.

Those who go to the State Bank or the schools for assistance in filling out the forms should bring a statement of the total property tax paid for 1972 (paid in 1973) or the total rent paid in 1972, and a statement of their household income for 1972.

Letters to the Editor on any current issues are welcome. Only letters with names can be considered for this column. Signatures will be withheld on request. Letters cannot be returned and are subject to minor editing.

November 21, 1973

Dear Mr. Schwartz:

I have just read a letter on your editorial page, Antioch News, dated 11-21-73, regarding the recent Bike-A-Thon which was held in October in Antioch (on seven other routes in Lake County, too), unsigned, name withheld upon request.

Before answering, may we thank you on behalf of the Board of Directors, Lake County Unit, American Cancer Society, for the publicity given the cancer Bike-A-Thon, as well as all the publicity in the past which has certainly aided in the control of cancer.

1) November 15th was the deadline. We are in the process of getting the riders receipted and we intend to announce the winners on each Bike Route one week from now, on the 29th of November.

2) It would not have been possible by any stretch of the imagination to have been able to count the amount of money which came into this office by November 15th. Matter of fact, we finished counting just today.

3) All riders must be receipted and put in order before we can ascertain who has won a prize.

4) Mr. Reckers was certainly able to say that Lake County had the most successful Bike-A-Thon ever held in the United States because we had a list of the sponsors and how much they had pledged per mile for each rider. This was tabulated on the day of the ride. This was a matter of good arithmetic. We have collected to date almost $50,000 in the County. We shall exceed our first figure of total amount we are sure. This figure would top any in the United States. We still have approximately 400 riders who have not turned in their money as yet. We are collecting from them for one more bike prize per route. Route IV will include: Antioch, Lake Villa, Fox Lake, Grayslake, Round Lake. One bikewill be given for these five towns which comprise Route IV.

I believe that the December 15th date which was mentioned was the date for the second go-round. This is the deadline for those who have not turned in their money by November 15th.

Mr. Reckers did not mean that the first group would have to wait until December 15th. There was evidently a misunderstanding about this date. I hope this is clear.

Sincerely yours,
Leonore J. Glenn

DON DEUSTER: LESSON IN LAWMAKING

THE ANTIOCH NEWS spent a day in Springfield recently, talking to our 32nd District legislators and observing them in action. Each of the men was most cooperative and spent considerable time talking with us concerning his job and issues of particular interest to the people of Antioch. The following article is part of a series on our State lawmakers, to acquaint our readers with them in a non-campaign atmosphere.

(Second in series of four)

When a man moves from the political whirl of Washington, D.C., to the relative calm of the Illinois General Assembly in Springfield, he might well be expected to operate at a slower pace.

Not so for Don Deuster of Sylvan Lake, one of three representatives in the State House of Representatives from Lake County's 32nd District.

Deuster spent 10 years in the nation's capital, seven of them as Administrative Assistant to Congressman Robert McClory and three in the Department of Transportation. In 1972, he returned to Lake County and ran successfully for a seat in the General Assembly. What could have been a sort of "early retirement," or at least a chance for some rest, has been for Deuster merely a continuation of a Washington-type activity.

Most noted, perhaps, for his efforts to help create a Regional Transit Authority for Northeast Illinois, Deuster has much to say about the responsibilities of a legislator and about how laws are made.

The first myth to be shattered is that of legislators sitting down and writing laws. While the ideas for legislation usually come from the elected representatives, the actual writing of the bills is done, in most cases, by a group of legal specialists known as the Legislative Reference Service.

Deuster explains how he formulated his ideas for an RTA, then sat down and discussed them with the people from the Legislative Reference Service. After telling them what he thought such a bill should contain, its purpose, and the like, the "experts" draft a bill that will accomplish what the lawmaker has in mind.

In Deuster's case, and the same is true of other representatives, he added some sections of his own to the draft bill which was written for him.

Do the lawmakers actually know what is in their laws? Deuster points to a stack of bills on his desk: "There's the Blair bill (House Speaker Robert Blair's proposal for an RTA) and the Walker bill; they're both 45 pages. Mine, I think, is 64 pages. That's a whale of a lot of legislative work, and the average legislator does not know what's in there."

Deuster claims to be "one of the few legislators . . . who has actually read all (of the RTA proposals)."

He calls himself a legislative "activist," explaining that a legislator can "sit back, do nothing and vote 'No,'" or be a "doggone nuisance" who attracts the attention of those in positions of power, mainly through proposing amendments to others' bills.

There has been probably no better "teacher" of the legislative process in recent years than the late Senator Everett Dirksen. Deuster states that he learned much of his legislative philosophy by observing Dirksen while he (Deuster) was serving with McClory. Dirksen, he says, was a master in the art of amending:

"Once in a while, if you've got 10 amendments, you've got one that's going to catch them (the sponsors of the bill) off guard," Deuster explains, "and they're going to have to deal with you." This way, he says, a lawmaker can get provisions into a bill that he feels are necessary. "What you do is you attract interest," says Deuster, pointing out that if a representative does not make such waves he is going to be treated as "just one of the crowd."

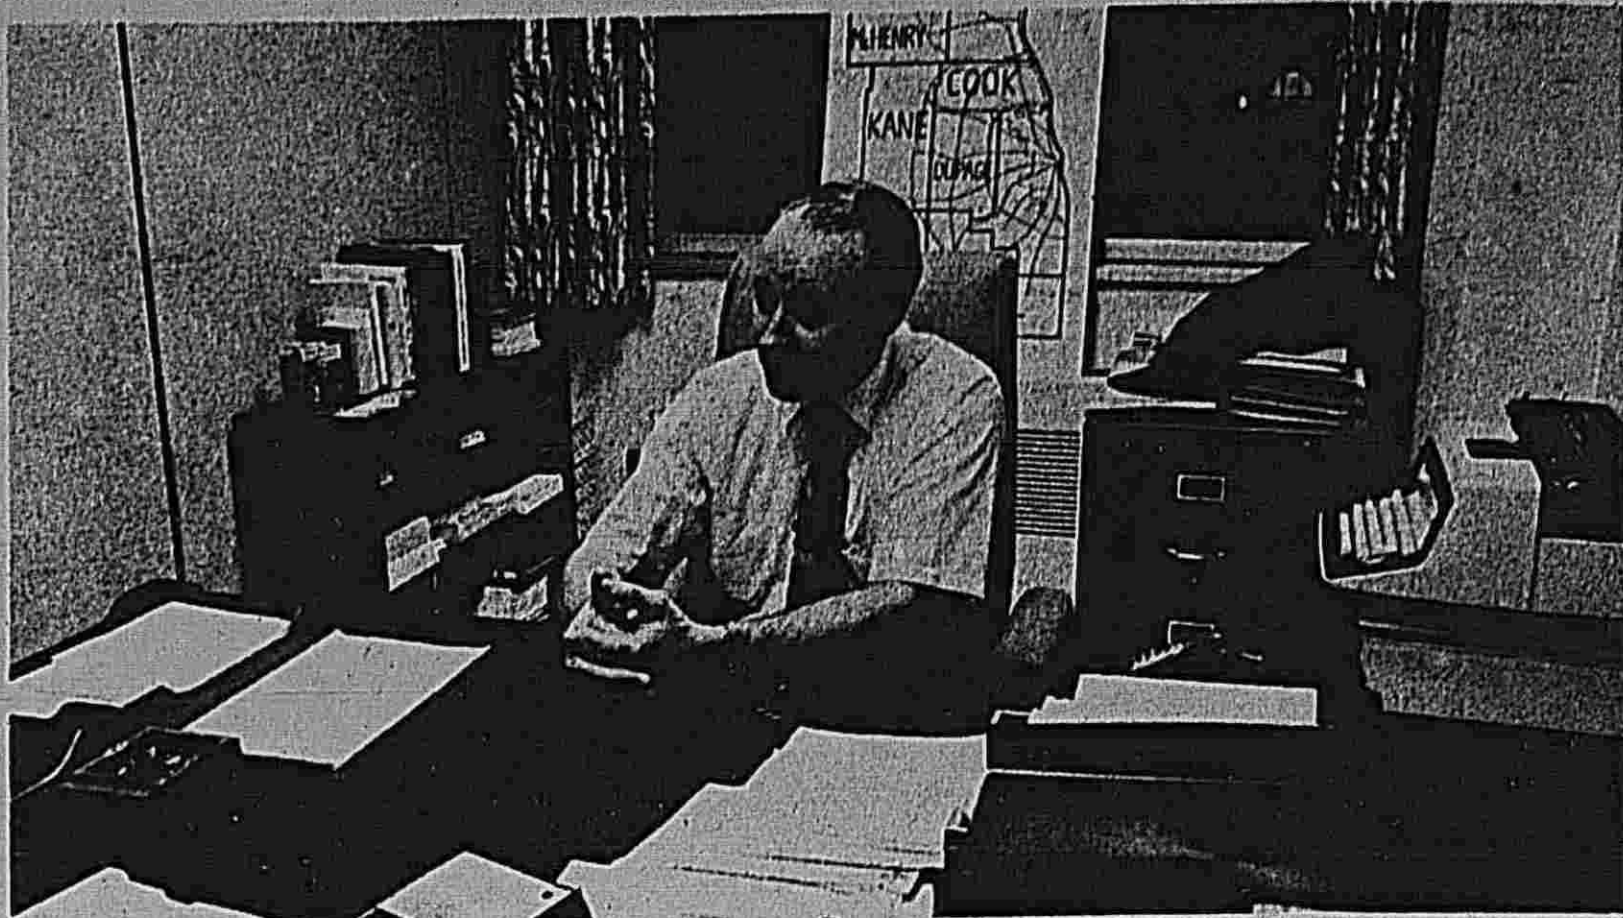

The legislator's life consists of two activities, according to Deuster. Not only is he concerned with initiating action, but he must also be "responsive" to his constituents.

In this respect, he says, the elected representative has to know the government structure. When citizens come to him with their requests, he becomes a go-between, the person in government who is accessible to the people, who can get things done.

The principle responsibility of the legislator, Deuster says, is still "to go over and to cast your vote."

"In preparation for that vote," he continues, "you ascertain what the attitudes of your constituents are and how the subject will affect your district."

Of course, the more active legislator will be introducing

The office of State Rep. Don Deuster is one of hundreds in the State Office Building in Springfield. Each representative has a private office, but must share secretarial services with two others. (Staff Photo) bills of his own (with the help, remember, of the Legislative Reference Service). When he does this, he becomes involved in following his bill through committee. He must testify, or explain his bill to the other lawmakers, he becomes a persuader.

Deuster cites a recent example in which he was questioning Speaker Blair about the latter's tax relief bill. This being another issue on which the Speaker and the Governor differed, Deuster was trying to "nudge them in the direction of a compromise." As part of the process, he was questioning Blair on the floor of the House about his bill and about possible amendments to it.

There are, of course, different ways to go about his. Continuing his example, Deuster explains how he "tried to be soft and mellow and gentle, trying to create the atmosphere of, 'Let's you and Dan Walker get together.'"

"Then John (Matejevich) got up and was just throwing barbs at him and he got him mad, and we had a ferocious exchange . . . and everyone enjoyed it."

To an extent, according to Deuster, the activities of a legislator are almost spontaneous, growing out of his preparation.

"Your whole (activity), reading the mail, reading the newspapers, knowing what the issues are, following legislation, that all gets you into the mood, and when the time comes, the first thing you know, you're on your feet talking . . . That's what's fun, I think, about the legislature."

RIP VAN WINKLE DELIGHTS ANTIOCH

Audiences were charmed, over the Thanksgiving weekend, by the first performance of the PM&L production of "Rip Van Winkle," the immortal Washington Irving tale adapted to the stage by Charlotte B. Chorpennig. The remaining performances of this popular and heavily subscribed play, at the PM&L Theater, 877 Main Street in Antioch, will take place on Saturdays and Sundays, December 1, 2, 8 and 9. There will be 2:30 matinees on those dates (the December 9 matinee is already sold out) and a 7 p.m. evening performance on the 9th.

The PM&L production, directed by Valerie Hunley, boasts a large and varied cast, of whom no fewer than 14 are from Antioch. These are David Lagerstrom, who plays young Rip Van Winkle; Josef Hunley, old Rip himself; Wanda Springer, Mayken Van Twiller; Robinette Hunley, Katrina Van Shaick; Nancy Springer, Rychie Vedder; Avis Minger, Judith Van Winkle; Greg Mieure, Derrick Van Bummel; Carolyn Blanchette, Dame Van Shaick; Pam Hill, Dame Van Bummel; Phil Schwartz, Hendick Hudson; Donna Warner, Abigail; Bob Hunley, George; Paula Warner, Betsy; and Steve Sander, Nicky.

Others in the cast include George Ramsay, from Ingleside who plays Wouter Gardinier; Gerri Duncan, Wilmot, Dame Van Winkle; Mickey Knox, Waukegan, Dominie Van Shaick; Gary Strahan, Wadsworth, Nicholas Vedder; Dena Fabry, Lake Villa, Dame Vedder; Jim Fabry, Lake Villa, Pete; and Tom Duncan, Wilmot, Thomas.

This grand cast of older and young people spans all the ages and generations of Rip Van Winkle, the remarkable story of and for all people of all ages who are caught by the sorcery and folklore of the colonial Dutch of upper New York at the time of the American Revolution. Whether you are interested in the magic world of youngsters, the difficulties of adult life of colonial or modern times, the history of Knickerbocker New York, great American literature, or just plain good theater, you owe it to yourself and your family to see PM&L's "Rip Van Winkle" with them, for to relive this tale is to rub elbows again with all of these qualities that shaped our society and our lives.

Antioch's appreciation of this classic is reflected by the heavy subscription of the performances, some of which have already been sold out. To avoid disappointment, call 395-9702 to make your reservations to see "Rip Van Winkle."

November 20th was the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W Horton of Antioch, who were royally entertained for the occasion. Ten members of the Horton family had a delicious dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horton, Victoria Street, on Saturday evening, November 17th. Clare Horton's niece and her husband, the John Ekes and their daughter Bette, of Fox Lake, hosted a wonderful buffet dinner party for 55 Drom relatives and three friends on Sunday afternoon and evening, November 18th. Floyd's niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lutz, Main Street, entertained 24 Horton relatives for cake and coffee on Tuesday evening, November 20th. Floyd and Clare wish to thank everyone for their thoughtfulness and best wishes, and also, for the beautiful flowers, gifts, photo trees of both the Horton and Drom families, the 55 lovely anniversary cards, including one from President and Mrs. Richard Nixon. A special "Thanks" to the Joseph Hortons, the John Ekes and the Clarence Lutz's for hosting the parties. Clare is the third member of the Jake Drom family to celebrate a Golden Wedding Anniversary. The other members were Mr. and Mrs. August Drom of Manitowac, Wisconsin on June 18, 1973 and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ellis, North Main St., Antioch, on March 3, 1970. Many Congratulations and many happy years ahead, Clare and Floyd!

TRAVELING WITH TAFFY

SOCIAL CHANGE IN TAIWAN

By: Taffy Engelhardt

Taiwan is one of the few places in the East where the traditional Chinese culture and institutions are being preserved and remodeled, and where the democratic way of life is being practiced and promoted. In order to accomplish these purposes both the National and the Provincial Governments and the people on the island have been trying their best to bring about improvements in various fields. As a result, a peaceful great change in societal structure and functions has taken place in this part of the world. Perhaps nowhere else can one find such an extensive and peaceful change, guided by such a meaningful socio-political philosophy, in such a short period of time.

Population Growth

Taiwan's population growth has been one of the most rapid in the world within the past twenty-five years. In 1950 the total population was over 7 million, ten years later, over 10 million and 1969 over 14 million. This means that the population has almost doubled in 20 years.

As for the rates of birth, death and natural increase, the general tendency has been a gradual decline. This drop is largely due to the improvement in public health, and that of the birthrate due to the practice of contraception which has become rather wide-spread during the last few years.

Economic Structure

Economic structure is a very broad term. Taiwan's economic structure is divided into industrial structure, trade structure, and monetary structure. The writer, who is not an economist, can only give a bird's eye view of the general trend of Taiwan's economic development with special emphasis on its relationship to Taiwan's societal change.

During the first few years after World War II, Taiwan's economic structure was in a state of disorganization. There were three serious problems confronting the Taiwan economy at that period of time. First, many parts of important cities had been badly damaged the railway system disrupted, and irrigation projects were left unattended. Second, many of the important positions and jobs had been without qualified personnel. And third, as inflation was becoming more and more serious, the public began to lose confidence in the currency.

After the National Government had moved to Taiwan, it began to put all its effort to defend this province. It started to reorganize and strengthen the armed forces, and to carry out political, economic and social reforms.

Besides maintaining public order, it tried to pay special attention to rebuilding the Taiwan economy. It first of all performed three important tasks: to rehabilitate the war devastated areas, to introduce monetary reform, and to put into effect a program of land reform. All these tasks were are mainly centered on his or her own family. But since the establishment of the Republic and due to the influence of modern Western ideologies, the importance of both the state and the individual has gradually been recognized and emphasized. This new development has eventually affected the structure and role of the family.

Stranded

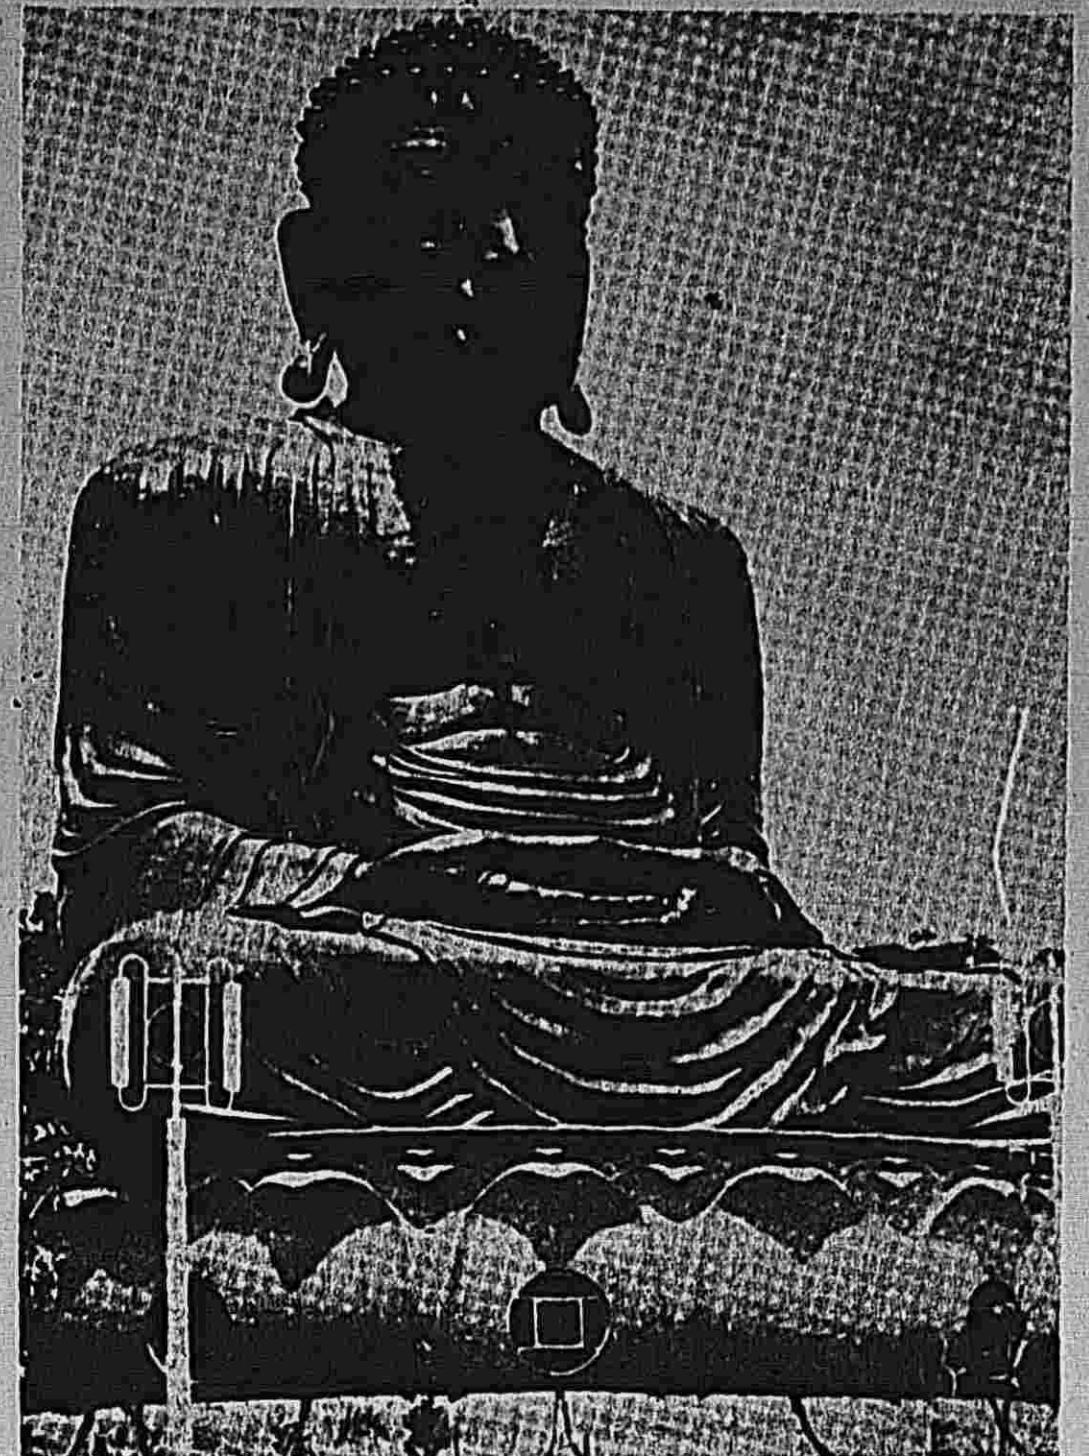

The S.S. Universe departed from Keelung, Taiwan the morning of October 10th, minus 41 ACA'ers. Since air and bus service out of the mountainous areas was cancelled due to severe weather, 40 WCA students and 1 faculty member remained stranded at Taroko Gorge, on the East Coast of Taiwan. Luckily, they safely rejoined us in Hong Kong - minus the money needed for their flight from Taiwan to Hong Kong but glad to be secure in their own community again.

performed with remarkable success. It went a step further by launching the nation's first four year economic development plan. "Since then Taiwan's productive capacity has grown steadily. By 1969, agricultural output was up by 124 percent and industrial output by 84 percent. The average annual growth rates for agriculture and industry were 4.9 percent and 14.1 percent respectively."

Structure and Role of the Family

In China, just as in many other countries of the world, marriage and the family are two of the most fundamental social institutions. They are generally thought to be even more important to the Chinese than to many other people. One's hopes and daily activities

Next week Taffy's article on Taiwan will be continued. Be sure to keep up with the rest of her articles in the issues of THE ANTIOCH NEWS to follow as we have just received letters from her about her travels in Hong Kong, Singapore and Jakarta, Indonesia.

ANTIOCH WOMEN'S CLUB ENTERTAINED BY HOLIDAY MUSIC

The theme of the November 19th meeting of the Antioch Woman's Club was "Thanksgiving" and to judge from the smart attire of the more than sixty women present, this group has lots to be thankful for.

Fannie Yates read the Thanksgiving poem "A Time to Remember" by Virginia Oliver.

That the AWC is growing by leaps and bounds and will soon reach 165 members is evidenced by the addition of fourteen new names to the roster.

The AWC has been invited to attend the Mid-Winter meeting Dec. 12th of the Lake County Federation of Woman's Clubs at the Mundelein Savings & Loan Building. This will be a luncheon and Christmas party. The Island Lake Woman's Club also has invited the AWC members to their luncheon and Christmas party on Dec. 13th. Those interested in attending these affairs should contact Fern Watson.

Other activities are the party for Downey Hospital patients at Great Lakes Naval Base and the literary group meeting at the home of Louise Vos on Nov. 29th. Mariann Pechousek can supply further details for the hospital visit.

Program Chairman Lucille Hojem vigorously dusted the newly tuned and refinished piano before she introduced Jean Mulligan and Gwyn Cantelo, faculty members of the Music Center of Lake County, Waukegan. Their first selection was a Mozart Sonata duet. Mrs. Mulligan then sang four songs: an Irish folk song, a Christmas song "How Far to Bethlehem", an Autumn song in Portuguese and a love song in Spanish. Gwyn Cantelo entertained with several piano pieces, one an especially delightful nocturne for the left hand.

The piece de resistance was a young classical guitarist Kenneth Sass, who performed two numbers and left the group wanting more. A rousing duet "Nola" by Mulligan and Cantelo was the top tapping finish.

The closing meeting for the year 1973 at the AWC will be Dec. 3rd at the Community Room. This will be the annual potluck Christmas party. The Luncheon will be at noon. Each member is requested to bring a dish of homemade goodies.

Mr. John Caposieno, manager of Music Unlimited in Waukegan, is furnishing an organ and an organist to provide the program at this Christmas party.

Eighth grade students at St. Peter's School entertained their school mates with a presentation of P.M. Clipper's "The Contrary Girl," Wednesday, November 21. Shown (l to r) are: Dennis Groth (as Young Eagle of the Sioux tribe), Patty Gromala (Autumn Blossom, the contrary girl, of the Chippewa tribe), and four disapproving Chippewas -- Betty Letkey, Julie Barr, Paula Warner, Laurie Esser. Thanksgiving vacation at ACHS not only gave the students two days off school; but started off the basketball season with two victories. The Barrington tournament consisted of three games. Antioch won the first two, lost the third by a narrow margin.

The vacation also gave students a chance to catch up in their schoolwork or in some cases fall behind.

Tuesday, November 27, was the first interscholastic volleyball game that the girls played. The game was held in the girls gym and they played Zion. Results of the game will be available next week.

Yearbook staff held a meeting Monday after school. The purpose of the meeting was to prepare for its second deadline.

Practice has begun for the Messiah in which choirs from churches of nearby communities participate in a program with an accompanying orchestra. The program will be held Sunday, December 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the Antioch High School auditorium.

There was a meeting Monday for all girls interested in trying out for interscholastic basketball. Practice times were discussed and try-outs. Their first game will be held January 15.

LEGION AUXILIARY PREPARES CHRISTMAS GIFT SHOP FOR DOWNEY PATIENTS

By: Del Jahneke

Suddenly some of the dull, drab phases of hospital life is transformed into a sparkling dazzling array of gold, scarlet, silver and emerald Christmas ornaments and colorful gifts when the 10th District American Legion Auxiliary Christmas Gift Shop is opened to the Downey Hospital patients on December 6th and 7th, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., in the hospital auditorium. Auxiliary volunteers are asked to meet in the volunteer's room, Building Four, December 5th, at 9:00 a.m. These women will then "set-up" the gift shop in the auditorium, working until 4:00 p.m.

Cuddly toys, stuffed plush animals, dolls, small cars, trucks, games for all ages, and cologne, scarves, purses, etc. for the ladies will crowd the counters. The hospitalized veteran may select any gift of his choice for each member of his family, and then write his own enclosure cards. Volunteers then gaily gift wrap these presents, and later, wrap and address them for mailing, all at no cost to the veteran. There is nothing to indicate that the present is from the Auxiliary.

According to Mrs. Robert Broege, Deerfield, district rehabilitation chairman, the Christmas Gift Shop has been an annual project of the Illinois American Legion Auxiliary for many years, totalling countless thousands of volunteer hours and large sums of money. Assisting Mrs. Broege will be Mrs. Richard Stastny, Mundelein, State VAVS Downey Hospital Representative; Mrs. Henry Reinke, Waukegan, State Deputy Hospital Representative and Mrs. Philip Strand, Libertyville, Assistant State Deputy Hospital Representative. Mrs. John L. Horan is the Antioch Unit rehabilitation chairman concerned with this gift shop.

The Christmas Caravan, co-sponsored by the 10th District American Legion and the Auxiliary, will take place on December 8th. Members should meet at the Lake Region's American Legion Home in Fox Lake at 10:00 a.m. John Jones, North Chicago, and Mrs. William Franzen, Vernon Unit, district children and youth co-chairmen, announce that all who wish to travel with the caravan must be there on time. They will be bringing Christmas presents for the children at the Allendale School for Boys, the Lake Villa Central Baptist Children's Home and Gateway House. "Santa" and the legionnaires and Auxiliary members always take time to visit with the children and personally give them their gifts. It is one of the happiest projects of the children and youth program.

Mrs. William Dowden, Antioch Unit children and youth chairman, and her husband, have been participating in the caravan for quite a few years.

ABC'S OF TRAVEL

DO'S & DON'T'S

With the holidays rapidly approaching us all; following are a few very important DON'TS and DO'S for consideration prior to departing on your trip.

DON'TS—Never pack jewelry or other valuables in luggage you plan to check. Valuable personal papers, passport, credit cards, etc. should never be packed in your checked baggage either. Don't over-pack! Leave room in packed bag or take an extra bag for added items you might want to bring home. This will avoid armfuls of miscellaneous packages. Never use luggage that does not lock securely, this will eliminate temptation and the possibility of it opening up with airport handling.

DO'S—Choose luggage that is roomy and lightweight. Attach name and address to each suitcase both inside and outside. In case the tag on the outside should become removed in transit, you still have your identification on the inside. Scotch tape is a good traveling companion; it can be used as hem mender, lint remover and bottle sealer. Take along extra plastic bags. They will insure safe packing for the damp swimsuit you will wear for "one last swim" or the lingerie that didn't quite dry. If an international trip is the picture, include a washcloth; as most hotels don't provide one.

HELPFUL HINT—The best idea is to carry cosmetics in a small carryon bag which will slide under the seat of the airplane. They will be handy for freshening up enroute and this way you won't have to be concerned about the various cosmetics packaged under pressure such as hair spray, deodorant, etc. If you do pack these items with your checked luggage be sure and release a little of the air and pressure if they are newly purchased and this will allow for the air expansion at jet altitudes. Then place them in plastic bags. Happy travels.

GRACE MARY STERN ANNOUNCES STAND FOR REELECTION TO COUNTY CLERK OFFICE

Grace Mary Stern, County Clerk in Lake County, has announced today that she will file petitions on December 10th and stand for reelection to her present office.

Ms. Stern, elected in 1970 and the first Democrat to hold Lake County office since 1934, pointed out that a Democrat has never been reelected to any Lake County office in history. She plans to be the first, she said, just as she was the first woman to win as County Clerk.

Citing a record of progress, Ms. Stern acknowledged that "running on one's record" does not make for an interesting campaign. "Just the same," she said, "We've dragged the Clerk's office into the 20th century." "We have put our Vital Statistics onto Microfilm, indexed them on the computer; we have put the Voters' Registration roll onto the computer; we were able to save $150,000 on the four 1972 elections—and that's not small change—as compared to the last four elections run by my predecessor. We did the work ourselves instead of farming it out," she said.

Perhaps the Stern administration is best known for its crusade to open county doors on Saturday mornings. "It has been our busiest day," said Ms. Stern, "and represents the area of most conspicuous service I think."

Billed as "not one of the boys" during the 1970 campaign, the present County Clerk says that the record she and her administration have compiled is "to be continued...."

HUNTING, FISHING LICENSE EXPIRATION DATES EXTENDED

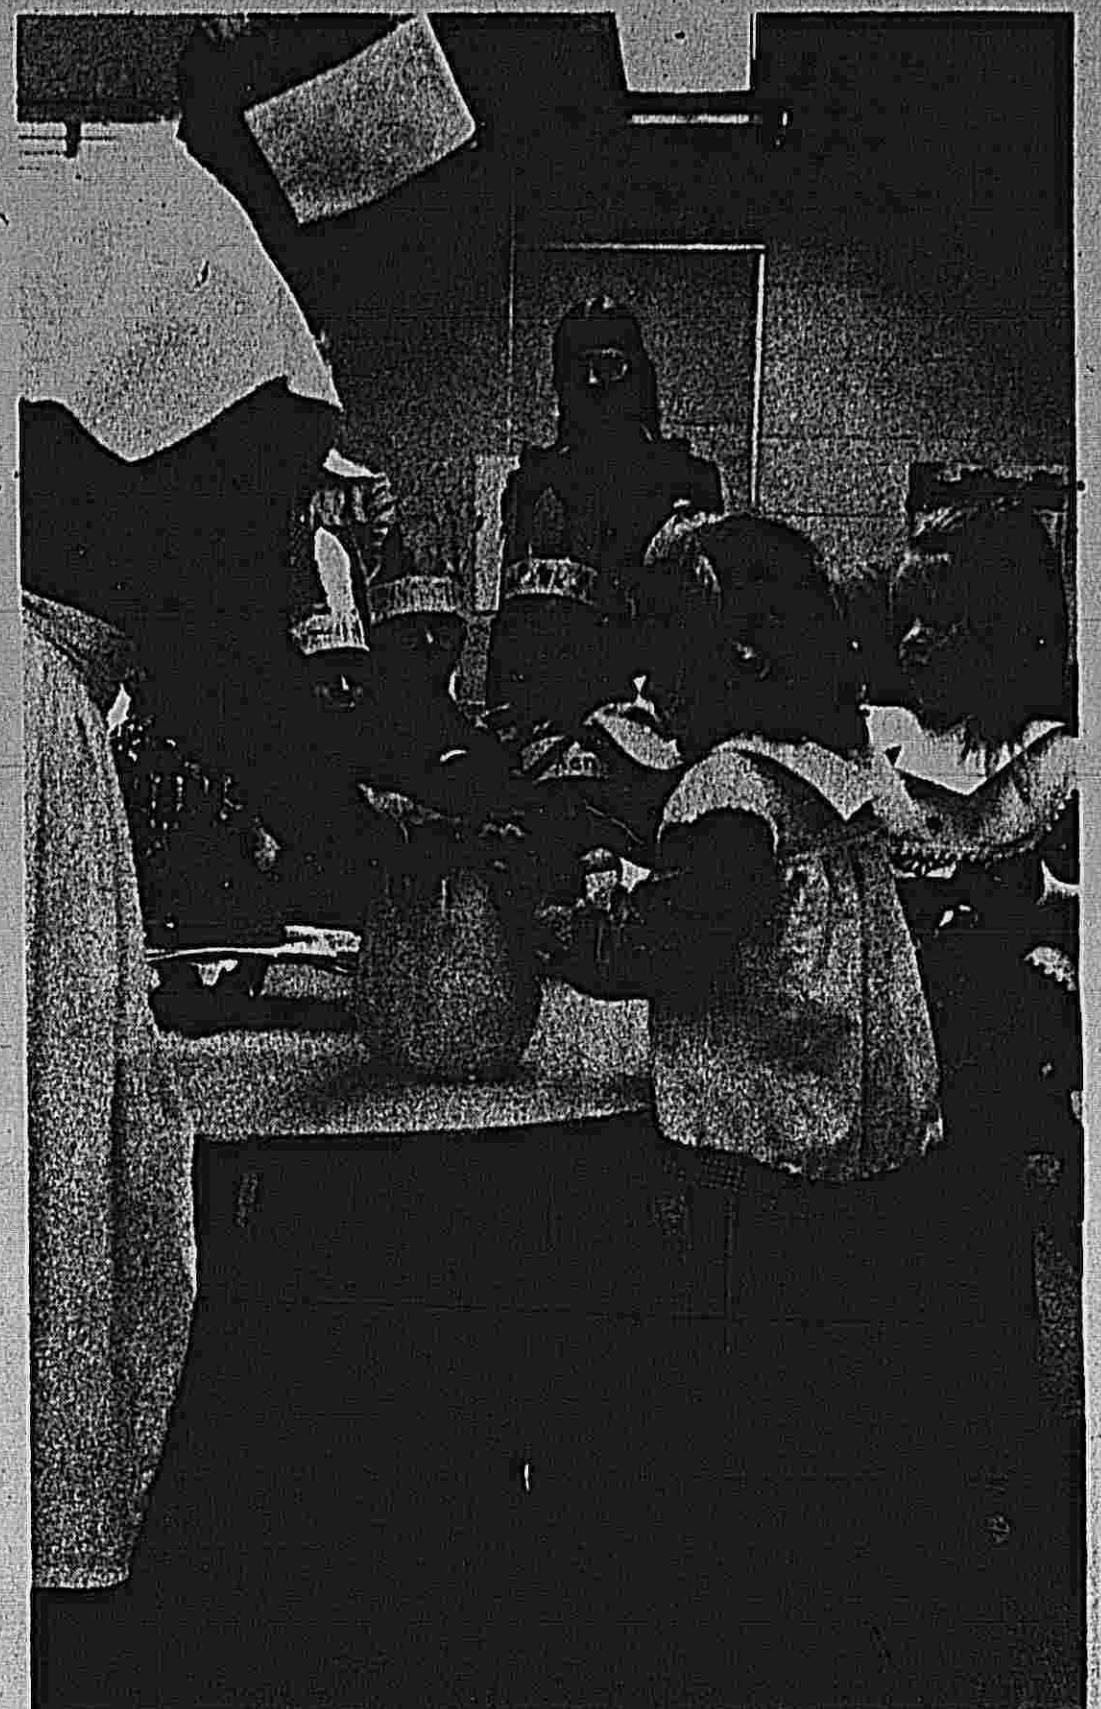

Don't throw away your 1973 hunting or fishing license on Jan. 31!

Amendments to the Fish and Game laws will give Illinois sportsmen a break, by extending the expiration date on hunting, fishing and trapping licenses to March 31, 1974.

"The change was made so that licenses conform more closely to the seasons," said Tony Dean, director of the Department of Conservation. "The new expiration dates will take anglers through the ice fishing season and expire just before the spring fishing season opens. It will also allow hunters and trappers to complete their seasons on a single license."

In true Pilgrim tradition, the kindergarten students at Oakland School sat down to a partly-home-made meal of cranberries, buttered crackers and chocolate milk, Wednesday, November 21. Among the highlights of the celebration was the actual churning of butter. In the photos above, teachers Joanne Dugenski and Louella Anderson help students work the churn; each student was given an opportunity. Meanwhile, Mrs. Anderson had the cranberries cooking on the stove. With the aid of several visiting mothers, the little "pilgrims and indians" sat down for a Thanksgiving snack. (Staff photos)

LAKE COUNTY BLIND ASSO. CELEBRATES 10th ANNIVERSARY

Newly elected officers were introduced at a dinner marking the tenth anniversary of the Lake County Blind Association, at Lorenz's restaurant in Antioch on Nov. 17.

The new president is Mrs. Walter Moehrke of Kenosha. Mrs. Veronic Epping of Waukegan is vice president; Miss Christine Barrett, Waukegan, secretary; and James K. Miller, Waukegan, was re-elected treasurer.

Now set up in an activities center at 916 Glen Flora Ave. in Waukegan, the association has knitting machines, Braille writing equipment, talking books and a library of tape cassettes. Work sessions are held Tuesdays, and handicraft products are sold throughout the county, usually at shopping centers.

With help from Lions clubs, their major benefactor, the Lake County Blind Association has arranged outings to botanical gardens, picnics and most recently a boat ride on Lake Geneva. Several members are in the Grayslake Blind Bowlers league and every year travel by bus to national bowling tournaments for the blind. Other activities are book discussions, musical programs and a fall fund-raising dance.

What about the next ten years? "We want to reach out further to the blind of Lake County, involve them more in our activities," said Jim Miller. "We want to be helpful."

Cosmetology, and Commercial Food Service.

Three to six separate courses are planned within each of these 17 programs. Any student at Antioch could enroll in any of these classes.

"We would be doing what a comprehensive high school should do, offering the student as many different experiences as possible," Polley said. "And the surveys conducted in planning the vocational programs to be offered assure that jobs will be available in those fields in Lake County," he added.

An Area Center would also compliment, and most likely improve upon, the work-experience programs offered by the high school now, in Polley's estimation. Although work-experience is valuable for the purpose of learning the responsibilities of actual employment, he pointed out, these programs usually involve very specific skills, or the operation of only one piece of equipment. This is no substitute for the broad education available through classroom instruction, Polley declared. In addition, work-experience programs offered through the local high school are dependent upon the availability of openings in the community and the cooperation of the local businessmen.

Asked what would happen at Antioch if the vocational center referendum is not passed December 8, Polley responded that, "We could not expand beyond the existing program. In fact, "he added, "we might even have to curtail slightly."

"It depends largely on what Waukegan does," Polley said, referring to the existing cooperative program sponsored by Waukegan High School. That program is already overcrowded, he pointed out. If they decide to limit their vocational programs to their own students, Antioch would have nowhere to turn, Polley said. In such a case, he added, Antioch could face the possibility of losing some State funding of vocational programs because the school would not meet minimum standards. However, he declined to state that as a definite probability, saying that it depended on how strict the State officials wanted to be.

From the superintendent's point of view, the Lake County Area Vocational Center would be, in effect, an extension of Antioch Community High School, allowing the school to expand its vocational programs at a bare minimum of cost to the local taxpayer.

"Hindsight's Better Than Foresight"

Main St. Antioch tells all who enter here that something is in the wind. The Christmas trees, the variety of lights and the colorful decorations are the signs of the coming feast of Christmas.

"Today a Savior has been born" is the occasion of celebration. If a Savior has come into the world, it means that the world had to be saved from something. What were we saved from?

We were saved from the corruption of sin. Ever since Adam and Eve disobeyed and brought sin into the world, mankind has continued to be born into a world of sin, sin that has continued over the years of the existence of the universe.

Sin like all evil, is the absence of good. So if the savior came to save us from sin, it means that he came to fill that absence of sin. To be saved means that you have the means to overcome sin. This is what Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth and the life."

Jesus the Christ, the anointed One, has given us the way in truth to have a full life. It is in His paradoxical promise given in Christianity that a life of peace can be possible amid the anxiety and troubles of this world. To live truth is the way to have life in its fullest.

Birthdays abound in our area.

Doug Runyard was the guest of honor at a surprise party given him by his wife Nancy on Saturday, November 17th.

Jeff Lemke also celebrated his 10th birthday on November 17th.

Lorraine Lemke held a party on Saturday night celebrating her birthday plus sharing the honors with Dick Harland who's birthday was Friday and John Runyard who's was Sunday. Joining the trio in the celebration was Pat Harland, Marg Runyard, Dorothy Enzenbacher, Bob Lemke, Ed and Carolyn Corrado, Gene and Virg Rudolph, and Louise and Joe Gutowski.

Mrs. Emily Rudolph held a family dinner on Sunday for her birthday.

Little Betsy Zeien will blow out two candles on her cake Wednesday, November 28th.

Happy Birthday to all.

Joe Gutowski was the lucky hunter for the first weekend of Illinois Deer Season. He shot a 6 point buck and our freezer is full of some delicious venison. Son Jeffery and brother-in-law Jim Portalski were not as lucky, but will be returning to Carroll County in December to try again.

Julie Gutowski entertained 12 classmates at a slumber party last Friday night. The girls played records, danced, ate pizza, made noise and averaged about 2 hours sleep, and had a great time despite being very tired Saturday.

Mr. Walt Soderman was serenaded in the lunch room on Monday when his students sang happy birthday to him.

Mr. Soderman feels the area is in need of exercise again this year as he will be starting the volleyball games this Wednesday, November 28th at 7 p.m. in our school gym. Every adult in our community is welcome to attend so mark it on your calendar. This is your chance to get in shape before the holidays get us out of shape.

Mr. Wonderful is planning a box social on Saturday, December 1st. Everyone is invited and can get more details by calling Steve or Beverly at 395-9839.

Hear tell Marly Gauger's community hay ride was a huge success a couple of weeks ago.

Belated get well wishes to Mary Chase who is recuperating at home after surgery in a Chicago hospital and to Lois Dowell who also had surgery. Get well soon you two.

With A "Stern Eye"

The telephone seemed especially loud, ringing as it did in the middle of our weekly staff meeting. I made an "excuse me" gesture to Fred, Terry and Gene and answered it.

"It seems to me I've called a number of times and found you out," said a familiar voice of the crabby lady from Lake Avenue. "Those are mighty frequent lunch hours you take on the taxpayers' money—"

"Every day," I murmured, crossing my mental fingers that she would be brief. "What can I do for you today, Mrs. T.?"

"Well, I heard that Suzie Metzler is running for County Clerk on the Republican ticket. She's a fine woman. Who are the Democrats running?"

"Uh—how about if I call you back in a little while. I've got a meeting going on in here right now and—"

"I knew you'd have some evasive answer. You politicians are all alike. One good thing about these investigations and convictions—at least you're all out in the open now—stripped of your sanctimonious—"

"I'm not trying to be evasive, it's just that your timing is inconvenient."

There was a moment or two of silence during which I could hear her ruminating over her chewing gum. Finally I said: "Actually no one in the Democratic party has announced for the office yet. Being the incumbent—" her snort was unmistakable. "Being the incumbent I am, of course, considering—"

"I am, of course, considering," she echoed in a very ugly mimic. "Why not a straightforward non-political answer, Madame Clerk?" I rolled my eyes at the men to indicate that I might have trouble keeping it short. "I suppose you're waiting for a draft!"

"I'd be glad to discuss the progress we've made in four years," I offered as suavely as I could. "I mean, we've really made some quite remarkable changes and advanced—"

"Don't be ridiculous! I have better things to do with my time than listen to your self-aggrandizing political hogwash."

Offhand I didn't have an answer.

The staff meeting was continuing without me. I could hear, though dimly, the men discuss the new marriage license form and the reactions to it. "Maybe if we got a typewriter with large print for the actual certificate," said Fred.

"Don't get the idea there's any kind of crowd waiting below the balcony for your answer," sneered by phone pal. "Au contraire, as we say. But if the Republicans are going to field their customary splendid ticket—"

"I certainly do appreciate your calling," I said into the mouthpiece. "Always glad to hear the views of constituents."

"You haven't half gotten my views so don't try to palm me off with those pat phrases. If you're capable of a straightforward answer, let's have it—are you going to run again or are you going to chicken out like all you pols do when the battle heats up?"

Gene was discussing the miserable salary raises permitted by the budget, posted (per statute) in our office. "The committee says to me, let them go work in private industry if they think they can get more. And you know what? They're going!"

"Let me see—" I could tell that I was beginning to sound vague and vaporous. "Am I going to what?"

"RUN AGAIN!" shrieked the mouthpiece. "RUN AGAIN FOR COUNTY CLERK!"

"Oh. Oh I see. Is that what you are asking me to do? Run again for County Clerk? Four more years? Now more than ever?" There seemed to be some static on the line. I couldn't distinguish what was being said.

"If they make Election consolidation permissive," Terry was telling the others, "And this County Board of ours votes to consolidate those four elections into two, it will save the taxpayers $190,000! Think about that!"

"I guess if that's what the people want," I said into the telephone. "If that's what you want, Mrs. T.,—" I paused, dramatically, for effect. "If that's what you want—you bet I'll run again."

There was an odd, strangled sound and I became aware that the line was dead.

ANTIOCH SHARES TITLE AT BARRINGTON

The Antioch Sequoits brought home half of the crown from the Barrington Holiday Basketball Tournament, having to share the title with the host Broncos, who beat them by one point in the final game. Both teams had 2-1 records for the round-robin tourney. The other two teams, Cary Grove and Elgin Larkin, finished the tourney with 1-2 records.

The Sequoits started the tournament with an excellent performance, beating Elgin Larkin 81-62 on Wednesday evening, as Mark Andrews led his team in scoring with 26 points. The Sequoits started out hitting the basket with regularity and opened up a 24-15 lead at the end of the first quarter. By halftime the Sequoits were out front by 14 points. In the second half, they continued to play well and won the game going away.

Friday evening, the Sequoits went against Cary Grove, in a game which saw some ragged playing by both teams, according to Antioch Coach Roger Andrews. Each team had many turnovers, but the fine defensive play of the Sequoits prevailed, and they came up with a 52-40 victory. Vic McGuire led Antioch in rebounding with 15, and Mark Andrews had 8 assists for the game.

In the final game of the tourney Barrington hung on to win a hard fought victory 52-51 over Antioch. With the Sequoits missing several easy shots early in the game, Barrington moved out to a 16-9 first quarter lead. During the 2nd quarter, the Sequoits showed some life, but in the last few seconds Barrington scored 3 points to finish the half leading 31-22. In the 3rd quarter, Barrington rebounded well and the Sequoits just couldn't get any offense going as their shots fell off the mark.

Trailing at the start of the 4th quarter 43-30, the Sequoits came alive, playing the spirited basketball they showed themselves capable of in the first game. With Andrews controlling the boards, and Gutowski and McGuire scoring, the Sequoits rallied to close the gap. With 3:26 left in the game Gutowski hit a free throw to tie the score and at 1:07 Gutowski hit a short jump shot to put the Sequoits ahead for the first time 49-48. At 41 seconds left Barrington hit a shot for 50-49 lead, and a few seconds later they hit two free throws for a

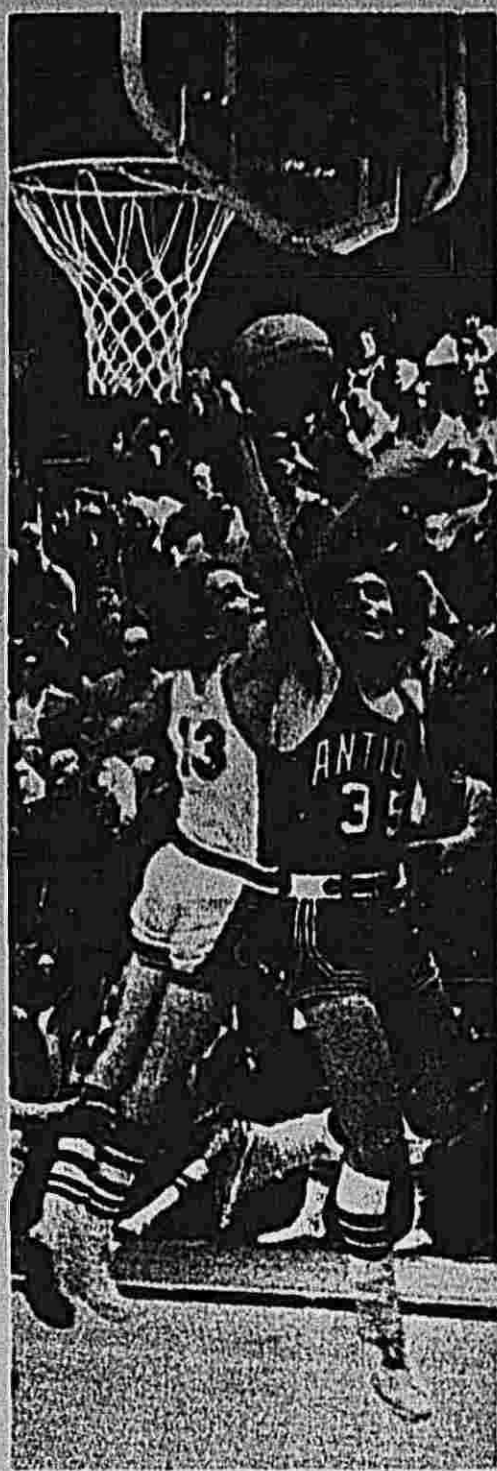

SOPHS DROP 2 AT TOURNEY

The Antioch Sophomore Basketball team Won 1 and Lost 2 in the Barrington Holiday Tournament. The Sophomores beat Elgin Larkin in the opening game by a score of 46 to 43 then lost to Cary-Grove 40 to 38 in an overtime and dropped the final game to the tournament winner Barrington by a score of 51 to 46.

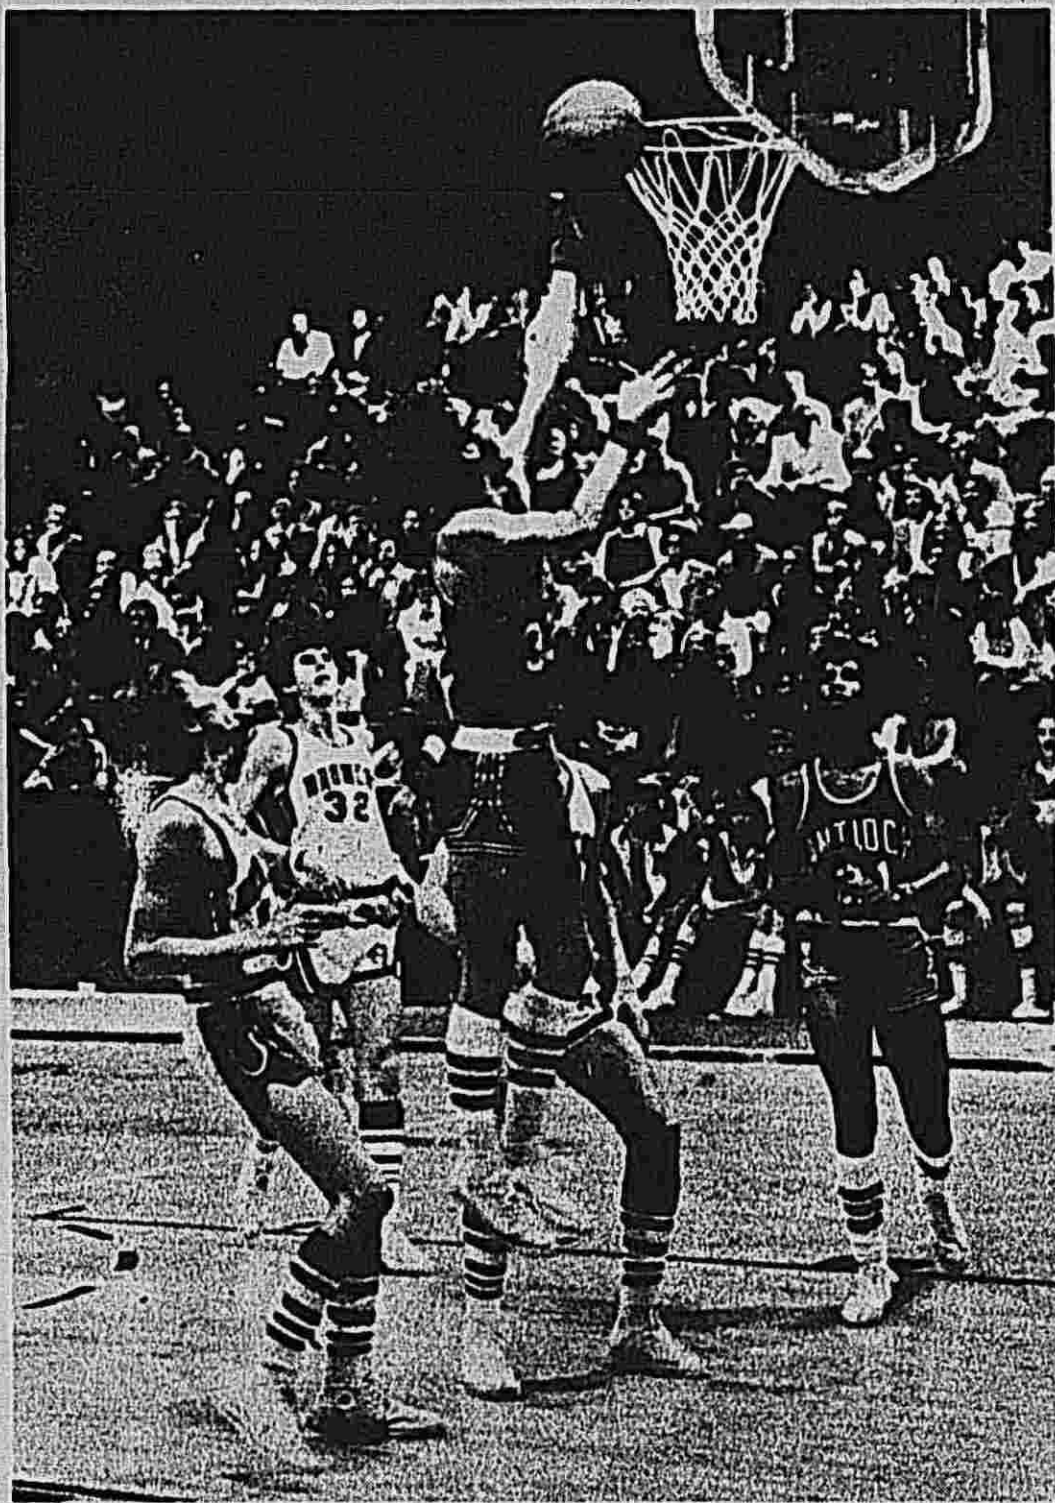

Scott Kimball led the scoring over the weekend with 51 points and 48 rebounds in the three games. George Ferguson had 32 points and 43 rebounds followed by Jon Bodin with 29 points and Jeff Eder with 14. Others seeing action in the tournament were Tom McAvoy, Tom Gutowski, Bob Dubek, Tim Sheppard and Robert Packert.

The Sophomores, who lack game experience, showed much improvement with each game in the tournament. They will play a tough Libertyville team at home this Friday and then travel to Lake Zurich on Friday, December 7 to open Conference Play.

The Sequoits have now won the title of the Barrington Holiday Tourney for three years in a row.

"They have shown they are capable of playing very good basketball," Coach Andrews said. "And when they are down, they really fight back, they don't quit. Those are the marks of a championship team."

After the Barrington game concluding the tourney, Andrews stated, "I am real proud of the team, their play, their spirit, and 'Never say die' attitude. Their fourth quarter drive against Barrington was something else. This team should be a real pleasure to watch during the season."

The Sequoits next game will be on Friday, November 30th against a good Libertyville team. Libertyville's record to date is 2 wins and 2 losses.
